Prominent Women Seriously Ill With Typhoid-Nancy Wynne Sees Good-Looking Costume—Dance Tonight at Merion Golf Club-More About Rainbow Fete

TYPHOID seems to be prevalent these days | the weather permits. No cards have been sent and several people I have heard of lately have been seriously ill. Mrs. J. Bertram Lippincott has been ill for more than two weeks at her home, 1712 Spruce street. Mrs. John Frederick Lewis is very ill, too, and Mrs. Arthur Emlen Newbold, Jr. They are all three so active in good works that they have been greatly missed. Mrs. Newbold was really feeling wretched the night she danced at the Easter party at the Ritz-Carlton. She told some one at the time that she did not believe she could do it, but because she had given her word to do a solo dance she appeared and went through with it and, in fact, danced exceedingly well. Typhoid developed a very few days after that.

I hear that Mrs. Lippincott is a tiny shade better, but she has been gravely ill and her family have been most anxious, to say nothing of her friends, whose name is legion. Mrs. Lippincott is certainly a whole-hearted, unselfish; charming woman. She has been so interested in the work for the soldiers. She joined the "Cheero" Club at the Independence Square Auxiliary of the Red Cross, and loved to wait on the boys, herself dealing out the "eats." She visited the hospitals every week regularly, and she took a very great interest in everything uplifting, not a passing interest, but a lasting one of years' standing.

Everybody loves Mrs. Lippincott and every one loves Mrs. John Frederick Lewis. whose charities are as wide as Mrs. Lippincott's. We will all breathe a sigh of relief when we hear that these good women are entirely out of danger. Typhoid is not exactly what might be called a joke, you

WHAT a good looking sports suit Frances Sullivan is wearing this spring! It is the loveliest shade of soft pastel green. When I met her the other day she was wearing this suit and a fine linen shirtwaist made with a hemstitched ruffle down the front. THE subscription dance out at the Merion L Golf Club tonight is going to be quite an affair. It's arranged by Mrs. Kane S. Green and Mrs. Richard E. Norton, who used to have a series of these dances at the Merion Cricket Club before the war. This is the first one since the war, and it will be a regular reunion party. And a lot of people are going to give dinners peforehand, Mrs. William J. Serrill, Mrs. Geéritt Judd, who will give a buffet supper : the Edwin H. Fitlers and some others. so pretty out there now, with the magnolias and the dogwood in full bloom, and dinner will be just at sunset out on the porch, when everything looks its best. There's to be another of these dances on June 13.

THE Rainbow Fete (that's the annual affair for the Abington Hospital, you know), is going to have a decidedly military atmosphere. One of the most important features is a competitive drill, in which the E. A. A. and the National League for Woman's Service will be the competitors. And that ought to be good, because those girls know what they're talking about when they start drilling, and Huntingdon Valley is a wonderful place for anything like that. The judges will be prominent military officers and a silver cup will be presented to the

Mrs. George Lorimer, who is in charge of the affair, entertained the committee at luncheon at the Bellevue on Tuesday to discuss the plans. . They are going to have a dog show—did I tell you that before? Mrs. William Mulford is to have charge of that. Mrs. Alan Reed will direct the fashion show, which has living models to display the hats and gowns. The market will also be a model affair, where you can get fresh fruits and vegetables from Mrs. Marmaduke Tilden and her aides. Mrs. Voorhees Drayton and Mrs. Dayton Voorhees-I don't see how they ever tell which is who—are going to have a regular runninge sale; Mrs. J. Howard Ervin will have the caudy booth and Mrs. William P. Denegre will sell garden supplies.

Then, as I told you before, Mrs. George W. Elkins, Jr., is in charge of the supper dance and Mrs. Barclay Warburton will manage the restaurant. And there's to be a doll's apron department also, under the direction of Mrs. J. Smylie Herkness. And there are going to be a lot of war trophies on exhibition and a Y. W. C. A. but, a Y. M. C. A. hut, a Salvation Army hut and a Nobody but the committee W of C but. and perhaps "a few intimate friends" know what the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow is going to be, but then, will be one. WOMEN TO EXPLAIN UNION WORK ABROAD

Trade Envoys Who Went to Europe Will Speak Here in June

Women of the country are looking forward with interest to the National Women's Trade Union League convention, which is to be held in Philadelphia the first week in June. The Women's Trade Union League has sent wo women to France, and they are coming directly from Paris to Philadelphia to make their report before the convention.

It was early this spring when President Wilson expressed his belief that it was essential that there be some representatives of the working women with which the peace committees could confer that the National Women's Trade Union League decided to send over two representatives. They selected Miss Rose Schneiderman, president of the New York Women's Trade Union League and a member of the Cloth Hat and Capmakers' Union, and Miss Mary Anderson, assistant director of the Women-in-Industry Service and a member of the Boot and Shoe

Miss Schneiderman and Miss Anderson sailed for Paris in the first week in March to confer with the peace delegates. They have not remained only in Paris, however but have attempted to reach as much as possible the European situations at first hand. Among other things, they have at-tended the international conference of women at Berne, so they will not bring back direct information from France alone, but from working women all over the world with whom they have conferred, especially of England, Switzerland and Holland.

Miss Schneiderman will present her re-port at a mass-meeting to be held in Witherspoon Hall on the evening of June 2 at 8 clock. Miss Mary McArthur, representing the Trade Union Women of Great Britain, who has recently arrived in this country, will speak for England. It is expected Governor Sproul will also speak at

MARION HORWITZ O'BRIEN GLAD TO QUIT MAYORING

"Blonde and Brilliant" Former Philadelphian Too Sympathetic for Florida Job

"Blonde and brilliant."

So summarized appears Mrs. Marion Horvitz O'Brien, formerly Mrs. George Quintard Horwitz, who transferred her position as a leader in Philadelphia social affairs for the mayoralty of Mone Haven, Florida. Gladys Bara, in the Florida Metropolis, a Jacksonville publication, writes:

"A woman mayor! Mrs. Marign Horwitz O'Brien, of Moore Haven, was among the guests at the Hotel Mason. Immediately I drew a mental portrait of her. She would be buxom, her voice would be loud, her hands large, and her costume severe and mannish maybe. Oh no, there was not a possibility of her not wearing spectacles with shiny gold rims. But she would be frightfully Many of her splendid achievements had drifted up to us during her twoyear regime in the South Florida town. 'Suffrage.' I enumerated on my fingers, 'league of nations.' 'prohibition' and the next presidential election. Yes, she would be fine on all these timely affairs. I wondered if she also wore-

"But the elevator door slid open just then and out she stepped. Thoughts of spectacles. stiff collars and commonsense shoes picked up their shamefaced heels and slunk away. Marion O'Brien, probably one of the most talked of and celebrated politeians in the South, stood before me, blonde and brilliant. "She was wearing a smart frock of mid night blue cloth, which clung to her slender figure. When she moved little flashes of diamonds hidden in various parts of her attire blinked up at me. On her golden head was a chie chapeau of dull bronze straw. And her feet. Well, every time I thought of those flat-heel ideas of mine, as relating to women mayors, I wanted to weep.

Doesn't Like to 'Mayor

"Then she began to talk. One must listen losely to gather in the meaning of Mariou O'Brien's words, for with her deep melodious voice one would rather close the eyes and drink in the music of her tones.
"'My term is almost done,' she declared.

and I'm very, very glad. Not that I do not love my work, she explained when I looked askance, 'but it's that nerve searing business of judging people that I hate. never want to send any one to inil, and yet I do all the time. Then stay up half the night crying for what I've done.' She is full of gentle, feminine charm, but with it all possesses the thoughts and visions of a statesman, with the justice and wisdom of a

"She has just returned from a trip to Tallahassee, where she and a delegation have seen pleading with the Legislature to establish a new county in Florida. She told me she adored dabbling in civic affairs, loved improvement measures for her town and state, and in fact all things for the betterment of a community. She admitted that her husband was a much better suffragist than she, discussed the new bill for the eradication of ticks in Florida and said that she rusted newspaper people with secrets more quickly than any one clae in the world (and I'm still wondering why she told me that).

Who Was the Man?

" 'Now,' she continued, 'I'm going to tell you what a very nice compliment one of your Jacksonville men paid me just a few minutes ago.' It seems Mrs. O'Brien was walking along the street late Saturday afternoon with a box of candy in her hands. As she started across in front of the hotel-s man in a big new touring car stopped directly in her path.

" 'Want a ride?' he asked temptingly. " 'No thanks, I've got to hurry back with this candy for my husband and son, but I want to thank you for being so flattering to an old lady like me.'

" 'Think of romance coming into my life at my age,' and she laughed . I adored her sense of humor. It was refreshing, keen and

, BAND IN JAZZ CONCERT

Large Audiences Cordially Receive Two Performances of Up-to-Date Music Lieutenant James Reese Europe and his 369th United States Infantry Band, commonly known as the "jazz" band, gave two of their characteristic concerts at the Acad emy of Music yesterday afternoon and eve ning. Large and enthusiastic audiences at tended both performances and thoroughly enjoyed them.

Each concert consisted of about twenty numbers, not counting the encores, of which there were from two to four to each number. This sounds like a considerable dose of music, but Lieutenant Europe loses no time in getting into action, takes everything as fast as it can be played and after he decides to give an encore does not wait for the applause to stop, so, as the numbers are all short the program did not become wearisome by reason of its length.

The band has the first requirements for jazz music in a faultless feeling for rhythm on the part of the leader and the much worked percussion instruments, and the men play with great snap and life. So much cannot be said for the tone quality, but after all this the most important requirement for stricter music does not count so much in the

However, had Mr. Rachmaninoff been present, and heard the "syncopated version" as it was termed on the program) of his C sharp minor Prelude, certain musicians might have thought that the war had broken out all over again. The late Mr. Grieg, too, would have performed the time-honored ceremony of turning in his grave had he heard the "rag-time" version of his "Peer Gynt." although the program made "respectful apologies to Mr. Grieg," a courtesy not vouch-safed Mr. Rachmaninoff. It was not clear why the program should apologize to Mr. Grieg, who has passed on, and not to Mr. Rachmaninoff, who is a gentleman of much temperament and gigantic physique.

The audience was obviously there for entertainment rather than pure music, and they got what they came for. Some of the male singing was excellent, and it was as much enjoyed as anything on the program.

special feature to aid the Victory Loan will be held at B. F. Keith's Theatre tonight. It will be known as "George O'Coppor Night," and the principal speaker will be George O'Connor, of Washington, D. C., one of the best-known entertainers in the country.

Mr. O'Connor is the son of an army officer and is a Washington lawyer. He is a university man, carrying three degrees, and it was in his college glee club that he began his career as an interpreter of humorous dialect songs. He is an entertainer of Presidents, having contributed to the closing exercises of Congress on many occasions and is a welcome visitor to the White House. He is also a Gridiron Club favorite.

Mr. O'Connor is very well known in this city, and has entertained at the Union League, Jewelers' Club and the Mystic Shrine, Mr. O'Connor will be assisted by Mat Horn, formerly Secret Service operative and now with the shipping board at Brooklyn, N. Yr. and who has collaborated with Mr. O'Connor in the writing of many of his most popular numbers.

The engagement here has been arranged to make a big drive for the Victory Loan. Subscriptions to the amount of more than $150,000 have already been secured at Keith's, and tonight many prominent bankers and leading Philadelphia business men will be at the theatre to aid the logo

FETE CHAMPETRE TO BE HELD THIS MONTH

Used to Equip Misericordia Hospital

The Sisters of Mercy and Ladies' Auxiliary of the Misericordia Hospital have issued invitations for their annual out-ofdoor spring fete. The affair this year, which is scheduled to take place on May 30 and 31 on the grounds of the Convent of Mercy at Merion, is known as the Fete Champetre and May-Pole dance. The committee is under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. Nash Burke. The proceeds will be devoted to the new Misericordia Hospital, which, since its opening a year ago, has heen crowded to its limit. It is to equip the hospital further that the Women's Auxiliary has planned to raise funds in this way. Not only will there be a large outof door buzaar, where every useful frivolous article can be purchased, but, as the name implies, a veritable country festi-val will be celebrated with entertainment of all varieties to sait all tastes and ages. There will be the May-Pole dance for the younger set and the Punch and Judy show for the little children.

A jazz band will supply the music during the afternoon and evening for dancing and n continuous performance of moving pictures will continue throughout both days. A Japanese tea garden where, under big umbrellas, afternoon tea will be served, is an added attraction, while a Moth party, where the familiar characters from this classic will be recognized, will also add entertainment for the children. Dinner will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock, junior members of the auxiliary acting as waitresses. .

The various booths will represent the countries of the allied nations and will be draped in the flags of the individual nations, many of the aides appearing in picture-que costumes of the countries rep-

DAY NURSERIES ARE URGED

Lack of Them Given as One Cause for Delinquency

The lack of day nurseries for colored chil-The lack of day nurseries for coloced children was shown yesterday to be a cause for some of the juvenile delinquency and the reason why a number of children dron out of school long before they have sufficient education. This was brought out at the meeting of the Philadelphia Association of Day Nurseries held at the College Club to discuss the need of day nurseries for colored children in specific districts of the city and the type of nursery most desirable.

Clarence R. Whyte, principal of the James Logan School, Nineteenth and Reed streets, said that within a radius of five blocks 1000 small children were left every day in charge of older children who should be at school. The ultimate effect of the children kept home from day to day was to
